Virility™

Product Information

Virility contains phytotherapeutic extracts of Kaempferia parviflora (Black Ginger) and Eurycoma longifolia (Tongkat Ali). Two botanicals with deep roots in Southeast Asian herbal tradition, historically prepared as tonics for male vitality, physical stamina, and overall energy. Both have been the subject of modern botanical research exploring their effects on circulatory function, hormonal balance, and physical performance.

Kaempferia parviflora (Black Ginger) Native to Thailand and parts of Southeast Asia, black ginger has been used in traditional Thai herbal practice for centuries, where it was historically prepared as a tonic associated with physical vitality and energy. Researchers have investigated compounds in Kaempferia parviflora, particularly its methoxyflavone constituents, for their effects on circulatory function and cellular energy pathways, and botanical studies have explored how these constituents may interact with mechanisms related to physical endurance and overall vitality.

Eurycoma longifolia (Tongkat Ali) Eurycoma longifolia, commonly known as Tongkat Ali, is native to the rainforests of Southeast Asia, where it has been a longstanding fixture in traditional Malaysian and Indonesian herbal practice, historically prepared as a tonic for male vitality and physical stamina. Researchers have studied root extracts of Eurycoma longifolia for their potential effects on hormonal balance and physical performance markers, and peer-reviewed literature has examined how this botanical may interact with the body's endocrine and stress-response systems.
